Mortal Santa Claus Makes Early Visit To Riley Family Soon after Home Burns

Skulduggery Scented In Coffee Price Hike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP)—American housewives are likely to wait a long time for any general return of coffee prices to September levels.

The reason for this was outlined for Congress yesterday by an American diplomatic official: Brazilian reserves have virtually disappeared and unfavorable growing conditions have wrecked any chances for a bumper crop next year.

"I don't think Brazil ever again will be as big a coffee producer as she was," Robert B. Elwood, second secretary of the U. S. embassy at Rio de Janeiro, told a Senate agricultural subcommittee investigating high coffee prices.

Elwood was ordered home to testify before the committee. He took a somewhat different approach to the coffee problem from that of Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa). Gillette declared:

"It is just as apparent to this committee as daylight that somewhere along the line in October and November there were speculative interests that had such an effect on the coffee market as to practically double the price of coffee to the American consumer."

He added there has been "a rigging of the market and we are trying to find out where it is."

Elwood told the committee there has been an "unexpectedly heavy rate" of coffee exports from Brazil since July 1, 1949.

"Continuation of this rate of exports," he continued, "would have resulted in the complete exhaustion of coffee supplies in Brazil before the 1950 crop would begin to become available for export in July of that year."

Also, he said, a drought in south-central Brazil "destroyed all hope of a bumper harvest in 1950."

Finally, Elwood testified, Brazilian government-owned coffee supplies were liquidated last August, with a "strong psychological effect on the market."

In Rio de Janeiro, President Ruy Almeida of the Brazilian coffee exchange denied that speculation was involved in the coffee price rise, at least as far as Brazil is concerned.

"The advance came about naturally from lower production and higher consumption at the same time," Almeida said.

Russian Propaganda Being Pushed in US

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP)—The Soviet embassy's English-language magazine, barred from a number of American schools, today invited subscriptions from "many thousands of Americans eager for more truth" about Russia.

The latest issue of the USSR information bulletin, after listing some of the "fine articles and revealing photographs" it has carried in the past to give a "thorough-going, rounded picture" of the Soviet Union, says:

"Your relative, neighbor or shopmate is missing all these things through no fault of his or her own. We believe you could help us—and them—and therefore are addressing you on this page. We want these Americans to know our publication, to become acquainted with both it and the Soviet people."

It said it is offering special gift-rate Christmas subscriptions—$1 for 24 issues—its readers can "join with us in building friends in the cause of peace, international understanding and good-fellowship."

C. V. Youngquist, the official, acknowledges that Ohio's underground water level has dropped during the last year. He insists, however, that it's nothing to worry about.

"We won't be concerned unless the trend continues for some time," he said. His opinion is based on a new check of Ohio industrial centers and on readings from rural wells.

Last summer's hot weather was responsible for the drop in the underground water level, Youngquist says. A lot of rain water that otherwise would have gone underground was evaporated, he explained.

The following is a list of those who gave presents to the Rileys: Mr. and Mrs. Luther King, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weade, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hise, Mr. and Mrs. George Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. John Kneisley, Mrs. Clara Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McLain.

Socialists Trail In Australia Vote

SYDNEY, Dec. 10—(AP)—A slight but increasing trend against Australia's labor government appeared tonight, two hours after the count of votes started in crucial parliamentary elections. The issue is whether Australians want continued socialism or a return to free enterprise.

The Sydney Sunday Herald, an opposition newspaper, said "the labor government appears to have been defeated at the Federal election. Early results indicate the swing against labor has been enough to unseat the government."

Nevertheless, it still appeared to be a close race, with either side a possible winner.

No Water Shortage Likely in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—(AP)—Water shortages like those in New York and New Jersey aren't likely to occur in Ohio, the chief of the water division of the new department of natural resources assures Ohioans.

C. V. Youngquist, the official, acknowledges that Ohio's underground water level has dropped during the last year. He insists, however, that it's nothing to worry about.

"We won't be concerned unless the trend continues for some time," he said. His opinion is based on a new check of Ohio industrial centers and on readings from rural wells.

Biggest drop in the underground water level—six and a half feet—was recorded at Lima. That is because non-porous limestone underlies the area. It just won't hold the water like gravel under other sections, Youngquist said. But it has its advantages: the water level

Start Cutting Trench For 22 Miles of Pipe

Nearly All Pipe Now Awaiting Crews To Lay It

Work of cutting the trench for extending the 23 inch gas main of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation was started Friday by a crew of workmen employed by Associated Pipeline Contractors, Inc., of Houston, Texas.

For days the work of stringing pipe along the right of way has moved forward until it is now nearing completion.

If weather is favorable all of the pipeline crews except the "tie in gang" will be in full operation Monday, and nearly 300 men, including some from this community, will be employed.

Crews Saturday still were unloading equipment, shipped to where the firm had built a pipe-mill, from Louisiana line for Texas Eastern Transmission Co., which also owns the Big and Little Inch lines as well as the new 26-inch line now being built. Associated has built 80 miles of the line through Ohio, having ended its contract at Millersville last August when the supply of pipe ran out.

Present contract is for 22 miles of the pipeline, as that is all the pipe now on hand. The original contract was for 129 miles, but when sufficient pipe for the entire line was not available, the contracts were divided.

All except two or three carloads of equipment have arrived in Millersville.

Policemen Suspended During Bribe Probe

HAMILTON, Dec. 10—(AP)—City officials planned today to set a hearing date for five police patrolmen, suspended from duty after a woman testified in Cincinnati federal court that she gave money to officers while she was working in a house of prostitution.

Police Chief John A. Bippus announced suspension of Henry Masana, John Loftus, Dillard Jones, Frank Williams and Chester Sampson late yesterday.

He announced the action upon his return from Cincinnati where he was present in the courtroom when a young Hazard, Ky., woman testified at the trial on Mann Act charges of Paul Fields, 26, Hamilton. Fields was convicted and sentenced to two years in prison by Judge John H. Druffel.

She said she gave $5 to one policeman and another $5 to Fields to give to another policeman "for protection."

Chief Bippus said the woman implicated the five patrolmen when he and Detective Sgt. Stanley Werlein questioned her after the court hearing.

Congressman Starts Jail Term For Padding His Office Payroll

REP. J. PARNELL THOMAS (right), (R), N. J., leaves Washington in a U. S. Marshal's car for trip to Danbury, Conn., federal penitentiary to begin a six-to-18 months prison term for fraud. His wife says she will seek the House seat he has vacated. Thomas was also fined $10,000 for taking salary "kick-backs" from Congressional employees. (International Soundphoto)

Mrs. Thomas To Seek Seat In Congress

DANBURY, Conn., Dec. 10—(AP)—J. Parnell Thomas, though still a member of Congress, was just another prisoner today to officials of the federal correctional institution here.

The New Jersey Republican, sentenced to serve six to 18 months for defrauding the government, arrived at the institution just before 6:30 P. M. (EST) yesterday. He had come by train from Washington, where Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff pronounced sentence, to Bridgeport, and from there was brought to Danbury by automobile.

Thomas was convicted of padding his office payroll with non-working employees and collecting for himself more than $8,000.

He would answer only one question put by newsmen: what did he think of his wife's chances to succeed him in Congress?

"I think she'll win," he replied simply.

Thomas has resigned, effective January 2. After his sentencing yesterday, Mrs. Thomas, though inexperienced in politics, announced she would seek the nomination in the special election to be held in New Jersey to name his successor.

China's Nationalists Short on Men, Money

CHENG TU China, Dec. 10—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist leaders cried today they are short in manpower, money and material for their announced guerrilla comeback campaign against the Communists.

A Communist dispatch received in Hong Kong said Red spearheads were only six miles from Chengtu.

Gen. Ku Chu-Tung, 57, chief of staff and newly appointed Nationalist southwest China commander, said that at the outset of 1947 government forces outnumbered the Reds 4 to 1.

But today, he said, the Nationalists are outnumbered 3 to 1. Beyond that, he said the government—with a dwindling gold supply on Formosa—is so short of cash on the mainland that it is becoming difficult to pay troops in the field.

Road Near Chillicothe Slated for Rebuilding

CHILICOTHE, Dec. 10—(AP)—A three-mile stretch of state route 7 between Chesapeake and Proctorville (Lawrence County) will be rebuilt, the state highway department district engineers office here said yesterday.

The project, to cost $1,200,000 will entail raising the road level to 63 feet from 47 feet, three feet under the Ohio River's flood stage there. Flood waters have frequently isolated Proctorville from the rest of the mainland.

Many Accidents Are Checked but None Serious

Most of Country
Is Given Dose of Nasty Weather

Snow, sleet and ice on streets and highways caused many traffic accidents within the county early Saturday.

An inch of snow during the night had partly melted. Then sleet, with drop in temperature, caused the avenues of travel to be coated with ice until it was almost impossible for motor vehicles to remain on them, unless chains were used and speed was forgotten.

M. E. Brinkles of the State Highway Patrol, checked five accidents due to ice within a period of three hours, and Sheriff Orland Hays checked two which took place between 7 and 8:30 A. M.

Rain which started falling about 8:30, melted the ice and snow on most of the roads, but in the northwestern part of the county the rain froze as it fell and increased the dangerous condition of the roads for a short time.

No Serious Accident

Most of the traffic mishaps due to ice were of a minor nature, with little damage to vehicles and no serious injury to occupants.

Patrolman Brinkles checked one at 7:40 A. M. when Capt. Milton Osgood, Cincinnati, headed east near the Rattlesnake Creek Bridge on route 22, lost control of his car, which went into a ditch, through a fence and came to rest in a field. Osgood was accompanied by Captain Harrison J. Guck-enberger, Cincinnati. Both escaped injury.

At 8:10 A. M. Brinkles was called to a wreck on the Columbus Road, a mile northeast of Washington C. H., where a car driven by Donald Howland, 425 Oak Street, Washington C. H. had gone into the ditch and turned over on its top. Howland, his wife, Mary, and son Larry, age 8, escaped with bruises.

Brinkles also checked three other accidents in which cars had gone into roadside ditches, but were not damaged extensively and no one was injured.

Sheriff Investigated

At 7:30 A. M. Sheriff Orland Hays and Deputy Charles Foster, investigated a mishap on route 22, a few miles east of Washington C. H. where a jeep driven by William Blair, 31, New Holland, had not only left the road but had turned upside down on a fence, badly damaging the top. Blair escaped with cuts, scratches, and bruises.

At 8:30 Sheriff Hays was called out on the Jamestown Road, near the Fayette-Greene County line, where a coal truck and automobile had collided as result of the slippery highway.

With chains on his car, Sheriff Hays found route 35 near West Lancaster, so slippery that he could travel only 12 miles an hour in safety.

Several other minor traffic mishaps in the county were not reported, and in most instances cars were able to get out of shallow ditches on their own power.

Weather Generally Bad

Similar or worse conditions prevailed over most of Ohio, a check by the Associated Press revealed.

A batch of inclement weather—snow, sleet, rain and cold—appeared in prospect for many parts of the country over the weekend. Much colder weather and snow was forecast for the upper Mississippi Valley and the central and southern plains states. Blizzard conditions were forecast for western Nebraska, an northwestern Kansas.

Light snow or freezing drizzle was reported today from Iowa and southern Minnesota southeastward to Indiana and Ohio. The weather bureau issued a glaze and ice warning for several north central states.

Rain or freezing drizzle also was falling in the southern Appalachians and the central and southern plains. Snow fell in the Central and Northern Rockies. Skies in other parts of the country were cloudy.

Today's coldest weather was in the northeastern states, with the mercury dropping to below zero in some areas. It was -3 at Portland, Me., and zero at Albany, N. Y. Temperatures generally were around normal in the southern states and most of the far west.

Have you noticed that old sleigh in the mezzanine window of Ralph Taylor's electric appliance store?

It's a grand idea to feature Christmas goods and I note that it is loaded with Christmas packages.

Ralph obtained the sleigh from the loft of a barn owned by Elmer Rowe at 705 Leeburg Avenue. He just borrowed it.

Ralph applied a coat of white paint to the sleigh and it looks entirely different from what it did when it was removed from the barn where it had reposed for these many years.

Elmer formerly used the sleigh back yonder in the horse and buggy (and sleigh) days.

Better Care Of Wheat is Being Urged

Flour Contaminated With Insects Is Claim Made

Blame for marked increases in cases of insect-contaminated flour is laid to improper handling of grain on farms and in local elevators in Ohio.

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio State University, said the Federal Food and Drug Administration and Ohio Millers' Association were both concerned with the increase in numbers of samples found to contain insect fragments.

"Little can be done now to stop weevil infestation, except to turn the wheat in the bin, where room is available. Elevators can usually do this," Parks explained.

He advised farmers to inspect their wheat frequently and not to hold weevil-infested grain for future sale unless they are equipped to move it from one bin to another.

Parks said fumigation of infested grain is a "must," but will have to wait until warmer weather. Temperatures above 65 degrees are necessary for the fumigation to be effective. Where fire risk can be controlled, carbon bisulfide is the recommended fumigant.

Most of the weevils that infest flour, the entomologist said, are the so-called "bran bugs," commonly found in bran and mill feed. As these do not come in from the field with the threshed grain, he recommended treating all feed storage rooms and empty bins with a five percent DDT emulsion at least once each year.

Storing of feed in the same bin, or even in an adjoining room to stored wheat is not advised.

Activities On the Farm

BY THOMAS E. BERRY
VITAMIN B-12

That's a newly discovered vitamin that farmers are going to hear a good deal about. It is found in deep litter in poultry houses, and in cow manure.

We know now that hens kept on deep litter have less disease, and do better than when we change the litter often as we did only a few years ago.

We know too that hogs running after beef cattle do better than those closely confined, that are not following beef cattle.

Vitamin B-12 is being made synthetically in the laboratory for use in the rations of domestic animals and for sheep.

I don't know very much about the value of vitamin B-12 in the rations for the human race, but I expect many people would be benefited by having sufficient B-12 vitamins in their diet.

You might phone or write your Home Demonstration Agent in your county, or you might write the experiment station in your state for more information about this. I am sure you'll receive much useful and beneficial information that will be of help to you and your family.

JOHNSON GRASS

In the last issue I made some suggestions about how to utilize Johnson grass on bottom land where it is impossible to control it, and I gave a brief account of how alfalfa can be used.

I got just the reaction I was expecting from this article. There are those who say it can't be done, but it is being done. A friend just came to the office and gave me a report of alfalfa hay as it is produced on the bottom lands near Marble Furnace in Adams County, Ohio. Many farms there are badly infested with Johnson grass.

"It will pay you to go to this part of our state, and to see how Johnson grass is being utilized," he explained. "Since it is cut several times a year, it is not very troublesome and it has little opportunity to seed and to be scattered all over the farm."

"I wouldn't want to be raising alfalfa-Johnson grass hay on a farm of mine," a very prominent southern Ohio attorney, who was raised on a farm, just pointed out "for you'd get the stuff scattered all over the farm, instead of just having it on the bottoms."

I might say in answer to this objection, that in case some of the grass does seed, it could be fed to livestock, and the manure put right back on the land from which it was cut. But this won't happen very much.

We'd be glad to get the experience of more Corn Belt farmers who are utilizing orchard grass in this way for the information of our readers.

SPRAY FOR JOHNSON GRASS
"Spray Johnson grass with a chemical spray when it is about two inches high, and you'll kill it," County Agent Lowell Douce of Highland County, Ohio, just pointed out. We'll get you the details in a later issue.

TIMOTHY AND LADINO CLOVER
Paul Varney, Route 3 Batavia, Ohio, reports raising timothy and Ladino clover together and finding it a very satisfactory pasture and hay crop. Ladino, you know is just a selection from white clover and a very useful perennial legume.

If you haven't tried it on your farm, plan to sow some this year. You'll like it very much and you'll have something to worry about too, when you get it on your farm, you'll never be able to get rid of it.

How is that for something to worry about?

Price Support Faces New Test

Dairy and Poultry Markets a Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The government must decide soon whether it should permit prices of some dairy and poultry products to go down or to hold them at current levels.

The decision will be made in connection with producer price support levels for these products in 1950. Because of big supplies and large production, prices are down to or near levels guaranteed farmers.

The new farm law going into effect Jan. 1 permits the agriculture department to lower supports on milk, butterfat, eggs, chickens and turkeys. Under expiring legislation, these products had to be supported at 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a legal standard for measuring farm prices, designed to be equally fair to producers and those who buy their products.

The new law permits the department to support prices of eggs, chickens and turkeys anywhere from zero to 90 per cent of parity. Milk and butterfat must be supported at prices between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Some department officials have predicted that Secretary Brannan will lower supports on all these items, but with eggs taking a larger cut in price guarantee than the other products. The department now faces the prospect of a loss of $90,000,000 on surplus eggs bought last year and this year to carry out the price guarantee.

The present support program is designed to assure producers in the midwest—the region of surplus production—an average of 35 cents a dozen for general run, ungraded eggs. Some markets and farm sources expect this guarantee to be cut to at least 30 cents for 1950.

KOREAN LESPEDEZA HAY
This is a very good hay crop that is finding a place in the Corn Belt. A friend reports baling several thousand bales late this fall.

"This made some of the nicest hay I ever baled," he said, "and it dried out quickly in the bales because the stems are small and it was pretty well matured late in the fall, when other clovers carry a high percent of moisture."

MANAGED WOODS
Did you know that managed wood lots on the farm net annually about $7.00 per acre? You've got to know how to manage these wood lots, but it is not hard to learn; in fact it is very simple. About all you need to do is to fence them, but the weed trees—the worthless trees that have little or no value except for wood and that shade valuable trees trying to get started.

Then it's very important not to break the canopy, that covering of leaves and branches in the woods that shades the ground, and keeps it moist, so that trees grow vigorously.

Did you ever notice that when there is a hole in the canopy of a forest and the sun shines down brightly, that the ground gets hard, and the trees in this sunny area and around it, do not grow very well?

Of course, you should cut the trees that ripen as cutting is indicated by dead tops, and a matured (Please turn to Page Three)

Tractor Rodeo For 4-H Club Members
Something new—a tractor rodeo—will be offered Ohio 4-H members in 1950. John Mount, assistant 4-H leader, announced today.

Designed as a part of the 4-H club tractor maintenance project, the objective of the rodeo is to encourage skillful, safe operation of the farm tractor, he said.

It is anticipated that counties having club members enrolled in the tractor project will hold county rodeos, the winners of which will participate in the state rodeo to be held at the Ohio State Fair.

Gold, silver and bronze plaques will be presented to state winners, while gold, silver and bronze medals will serve as county prizes. Donor of the awards will be the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, one of the sponsors of the tractor maintenance project.

Instructions for conducting the rodeos and scorecards for use by judges have been developed by S. G. Huber, extension specialist in agricultural engineering.

The United States produced more than 3,500,000,000 bushels of corn in 1948, about a billion more than were produced in 1938.

Higher Turkey Prices Looming
Higher prices for the Christmas turkey were forecast here by D. D. Moyer, extension specialist in poultry at Ohio State University.

"Movement of turkeys at Thanksgiving exceeded all expectations in most sections of the country," he said. "Many turkey raisers have sold their entire crop."

He pointed out that buyers are active now, and indicated price for Broad Breasted Bronze and large White Holland hens may go as high as 50 cents at the farm before Christmas.

Small white hens, the specialist explained, probably will be three to five cents higher, but the price on Tom turkeys is not expected to go over 32 to 35 cents for the heavier weights and 38 to 40 cents for the lighter toms.

Discussing the price spread of from 18 to 20 cents between hens and toms this year, Moyer said, "Toms are the best buy, even if you only buy a half or quarter. Turkey is just as delicious this way, and there is less waste."

Recipes for turkey dishes—also from Bureau laboratories—are another feature of "Turkey on the Table the Year Round." Turkey chowder, pie, salad loaf, dumplings, and turkey wings Total 1948 creole and fricassee—are included.

The bulletin also contains some guides for buying turkey parts and either dressed or ready-to-cook whole birds. How to draw and clean dressed turkeys and directions for thawing frozen birds and parts are included. The poultry branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, USDA, cooperated with the Bureau in publishing the handbook.

A free copy of "Turkey on the Table the Year Round" may be had by writing the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

Attend Regional Youth Conference

Mrs. George Burke, Jr. and Albert G. Cobb of the Fayette County Committee for children and youth have just returned from a regional meeting of the Ohio Commission for Children and youth held in Columbus.

At this meeting plans were discussed for gathering information which will be vital to the Mid-century White House Conference on children and youth to be held in Washington D. C. in December, 1950.

County committees and state commissions throughout the country are surveying the present status of children and children's services. The White House conference, fifth of these meetings since the turn of the century, will make use of these nationwide studies in outlining a program for improved services in the future.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP)—You don't have to be a prophet to see what's coming: the endless, bitter arguments in 1950 over the President's National Health Insurance Program.

If I had to bet, I'd bet it doesn't pass in Congress next year. There's support for it there, but a lot of opposition. Mr. Truman's friends may not even try to bring it up for action in Congress in 1950.

Instead, they may leave it in the talking stage and then make it a campaign issue in the congressional elections late in 1950.

Mr. Truman has been urging a national health plan for years. He handed it to Congress last April. Briefly, here is an outline of it:

About 120,000,000 Americans would be covered. The bill says the program would be financed by a payroll tax of 3 per cent, split between employers and employees on the first $4,800 of a worker's pay.

And the government would chip in some money which, of course, would come from other taxes. Total cost a year? Trumanites say. Maybe $5 billion. Opponents say: A lot more than that.

Oscar Ewing, head of the Federal Security Administration which includes the Public Health Service, is in Europe now examining health programs there.

He'll have plenty to say when he returns in January—which is when Congress returns—since he's one of the main pluggers of the Truman program. And the president can be expected to say more in 1950.

But so will the American Medical Association have plenty to say. What the AMA did yesterday leaves no doubt of what it will do and say in 1950.

AMA officials call the Truman plan "socialized" medicine. (Trumanites deny there's anything socialistic about it at all. They say it's simply a long overdue plan for the country's general health.)

Pointing to the tax workers would have to pay for the program—if Congress approved it—AMA officials have called it an "extreme example of compulsory paternalism."

Yesterday the AMA decided to use some compulsion in fighting the program. Its house of delegates voted to levy $25 a year dues on each member. This year members were assessed $25 each, but AMA called this a voluntary assessment. It is no longer voluntary.

Most doctors are members of AMA although not all of them oppose the Truman plan. Those that won't pay will be expelled. No member has to pay dues now. It was estimated this method will raise around $3 million a year with which AMA can fight the Truman Insurance Program and do other things.

and unthrifty condition. They'll get worthless, and should be taken out promptly, using care to break the canopy as little as possible to do it.

Doing grass farming and raising and feeding largely legume roughage to beef and dairy cattle, and even some legume hay to brood sows will help in reducing production costs of livestock, and conserve and increase the fertility of the soil.

Now this isn't theory, this is an approved farm practice that is slowly taking root in the Corn Belt, and is certainly a step in the right direction. We have a surplus of grain in this country, that we would not have had if we had raised less grain. But still this surplus is a good thing, in the opinion of many of our shrewdest businessmen and diplomats.

November Births Exceed Deaths

Birth In 1908 Finally Recorded

The total number of births recorded at the Health Department, during the month of November was one more than the total number of deaths for the same period.

The figures for births, however, include a delayed registration for a man who came into this world in 1908.

This particular man is one of many throughout the year who come into the Health Department needing their birth registration, for some legal purpose, only to find that as far as the records are concerned, they were never born.

Fortunately this man was able to find the 79 year old physician who was present at his birth to testify for a delayed registration.

Had this not been possible, the man would have found it necessary to establish his birth through the probate courts.

This delayed registration brought the number of birth registrations to 24 as compared with 23 deaths. The figure for births, however, does not include those babies that are born outside the county and then brought back to their homes here.

The following were born to couples in Washington C. H.:

A daughter, Estella Louise, to Mr. and Mrs. Emory Cawley, 1301 Forest Street; a daughter, Deborah Jane, to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peters, 530 Third Street; a daughter, Lana Jo, to Mr. and Mrs. Ace Knisley, 515 Eastern Avenue; a son, Dennis, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johns, 739 Gregg Street; a son, Willard Lee, to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sims, 431 Walnut Street; a son, Arthur Lee, to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Daniel, 723 Forest Street; a daughter, Henrietta Ruth, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paul, 411 Florence; a daughter, Mary Pearl, to Mr. and Mrs. Lang McKnight, 714 Eastern; a son, Clarence Edward, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitch, 1114 E. Campbell.

A daughter, Judy Mae, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Cruise.

Brucellosis Tests for Cows Not Yet Ready for Use Here

County Sanitarian Donald L. Lange has been trying to get enough information to be able to conduct what is known as the "milk ring test" for Brucellosis in cows.

After several unsuccessful attempts through the mail, Lange finally found the reason why he could not latch on to the particulars he desired.

It all came out at the meeting of the Ohio Dairymen's Association in Columbus Wednesday.

According to what officials form the state Department of Health said at the Columbus meeting, it seems that the test is a little too easy to administer.

Consequently, they are afraid to release full details on it for fear that farmers might use it to discover which of their cows had Brucellosis for the purpose of selling their diseased animals.

This is exactly what happened in some European countries where the test was released for general use, the health officials explained.

Since the disease does not always manifest itself in any symptoms, the officials said, a farmer could use the test to weed out his herd.

Actually, Lange explained, there are other difficulties with the test that have to be overcome. As yet, he said, it is not nearly as accurate as the standard blood test, and it only shows up the disease if the milk is diluted in the right proportion. Another factor is that it can only be profitably used on combined samples of milk from a producer's farm. This does not locate the individual diseased animals, Lange added.

Although the "Ring Test" is not going to be released now for general use, the health officials said, it will still be used by state inspectors for locating Brucella-infected herds.

Brucellosis is transmitted to humans as undulant fever. It may be contracted by drinking raw milk or by coming into direct contact with the diseased animal.

Promise for a new vaccine for Brucellosis in cattle was given at a meeting of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association in October, but as yet it is still in the research stage.

Unit for Children In Mental Hospital

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—(AP)—State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck today announced establishment of the first children's unit for the mentally ill at a state hospital.

It will be located at the Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati and will be able to care for up to 60 children between the ages of six and 15. The first patients are expected about January 15.

Direct applications for admission may be filed with the commissioner of mental hygiene after the child has been examined at the Bureau of Juvenile Research or an equivalent facility. When the commissioner authorizes the child's admittance, the probate court having jurisdiction over the child shall commit him to the children's unit.

Lamneck said mentally ill children are now admitted to state mental institutions with adults with no regard to their age.

Agricultural Limestone

"In this country we have reached the point where our frontiers are not farther west or farther south--but in the soil under our feet."

When he made this statement in a recent speech before the Economics and Social Council of the United States, Alvin V. McCormack, director of the Agricultural Conservation Programs Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, was pointing out in words of wisdom and realism that our continued well-being, prosperity, and abundance in the face of a rapidly increasing population are dependent upon the relative productivity of the only frontier left to us--our precious blanket of topsoil.

The key to maintaining and improving the productivity of the soil is soil and water conservation carried out in the most extensive manner possible by the greatest possible number of farmers.

Congress, recognizing that the "wastage of soil and moisture resources on farm, grazing, and forest lands of the Nation resulting from soil erosion is a menace to the national welfare," declared it to be the policy of Congress "to provide permanently for the control and prevention of soil erosion."

Listeners and Radio "Give-Away" Programs

One of the enthusiastic radio fans in Washington C. H. told the other day of walking along Court Street and asking six different people what type of radio program they preferred.

He was doing this, he said, to really find out, whether listeners were as crazy over some of these "give-away" programs as some radio people seem to think they are.

Just two of the people he contacted, he indicated, listened to most of such "something for nothing" programs. Both of these people thought these network programs were "smart and clever". The others he talked with wanted for the most part "something better and more sensible".

Now that television is getting a big play, we are inclined to wonder what effect that will have on the "give-away" programs, which for a year or two have been the subject of lively discussions as to morality and legitimacy. There are many who think such programs are heading toward a natural end.

Some observers say that people are no longer holding the hour of the "give-away" program sacred. Nor do they listen to it with bated breath with one hand on the telephone in the hope they may be called to quickly answer with a chance for some "marvelous prize". It can be believed without undue strain, that what these observers say may be true.

If the give-away program should be ended by simple lack of public interest that would take care of the matter for those radio listeners who have found it distasteful and wished that something more desirable occupied its allotted radio time.

Those who have questioned the morality of the near-gambling basis and the subtle bribery of the giant basket of prizes would probably wish that this question might have been settled. It is indicated that the Federal Communications Commission would continue to seek a court decision on the legal standing of the give-away.

But the radio industry would have missed a chance to show its own mettle, if the give-away should just die away. The give-away program has been maintained, over the objections of its critics, on the argument that the radio industry will give to the listening public anything to which it will listen.

There are many who still hope that the industry some day may lift its standards above that level.

Thinking Youngsters

Representative Illinois young people attending the 4-H Club meeting in Chicago recently proved by their answers to a questionnaire that they have devoted some constructive thought to their future.

Most of them agree that 22 is a suitable age for marriage, that the husband should be slightly older than the wife, that three or four children make up a satisfactory family, that country life is better than urban living, and that they expect to be well-informed voters. Unanimous affirmatives were given to two questions: "Would you like your family to take an active interest in the church?" and "Do you believe in an international organization such as the United Nations?"

Disciples of the "What-is-the-world-coming-to" school of thought pin their prophetic on delinquency reports, and see little good in today's young people. Doubtless a careful check of varying groups of our future citizens would find most of their members in agreement with these rural youngsters on vital questions. The future belongs to them, and it seems safe to assume that it is in good hands.

Life Is Game of Checks on Bongo

(Substitution For Boyle)
By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK—(P)—Bongo came back the other night. I hadn't seen him for a year. Quickly I put my pillow over my face and counted: "1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10." But when I looked again he was still there, filling the doorway with his vast bulk.

Bongo is a phosphore scent gorilla with searchlight eyes and teeth like translucent baseball bats. He waddled noiselessly over to the bed, sat down on my knees and opened a checkerboard.

"Play!" he commanded. It is the only word Bongo knows. Reluctantly I made the first move and Bongo countered. Back and forth the checkers marched. Dawn streamed through the windows just as the alarm clock rang and Bongo finished winning his 17th straight game. He sneered and ambled out of the room.

My wife awoke and saw me shivering and haggard-eyed. "What's the matter with you?" "I been playing checkers with Bongo."

"Oh, dear," said Frances, "you're sick again. You've got a fever."

The thermometer showed she was right.

So for the next two days she stoked me with orange juice and aspirin. Bongo stayed away during the daytime, but each night he came back. It's a funny thing about him. When other people I know fall sick, roses and boxes of fruit and scores of friends come to call on them. Bongo can be fun under those circumstances. But when I get ill the only one I'm sure will come is dumb old Bongo with his checkerboard.

He first came when I had the measles as a child, and he's been coming ever since. Nobody enjoys my illnesses more than Bongo.

Frances frankly doesn't believe there is a Bongo at all. He is just a mental guilt complex or something you get when you don't feel well," she said. But not even a guilt complex could play checkers as lousy as Bongo. Only a real ape could be as ignorant as he is.

Bongo plays worse every year. He also cheats. Whenever he thinks I have him cornered, he turns his searchlight eyes away and makes a few sudden moves in the darkness. When he turns his eyes back to the board—he's got me cornered.

When I told this to Frances, she said:

"I certainly wouldn't play checkers with a monkey that didn't observe the rules. Don't you have any pride?"

I do, indeed—but not when I'm alone with a gorilla. And I am haunted by a fear that sometime I'll make a mistake and win a game. I don't think Bongo would like that. Once I had his last checker surrounded by three kings, and Bongo's fangs began to glow. I managed to drop the game.

Well, last night Bongo was late in arriving. It was almost morning when he came over and squatted on my bed. He spread open the board and grunted, "play!"

I looked at the board and saw in horror that he had brought a chess game instead of checkers. And I could tell that he didn't know the difference.

Silently I slid my hand over and turned back the alarm clock. It shrieked, "BRR—TTR—TTR—TTR—TTR—"

Bongo flew into a rage. He began to growl and reached out to cuff me. But Frances began to awaken then and Bongo, with a final menacing growl, folded his game board under his arm and stomped out of the room.

"Now, what's the matter with you?" asked Frances.

"Not a thing," I signed. "Bongo was here, but he's gone now."

And I got up and came to work. I'd rather die on my feet than play Bongo chess. There is no way even a sick man can be sure of losing at that game to a feeble-minded ape.

Complications of Big Business

By George E. Sokolsky

It is extremely difficult to understand the theory of law concerning trust — busting which moves the Department of Justice in all directions. The A & P case cannot involve monopoly nor even restraint of trade, since the A & P does not enjoy a monopoly of the grocery, butcher or vegetable retail business.

As both the Sherman anti-trust act and the Clayton act deal with monopolies, trusts, the seizure of economic power in restraint of the trading rights of others, the A & P does not fit the picture.

In the matter of the Du Ponts, the anti-trust lawyers may have a case because the Du Pont economic empire is so widespread. In my debate with Congressman Emanuel Celler on this subject, he raised the question as to the Du Pont ownership of stock in General Motors and the U. S. Rubber Company. The fact is that the Du Ponts in one respect are private bankers underwriting, at great risk, private ventures.

For instance, they came into General Motors when that company was going broke. William C. Durant had to be bought out to save the company.

Two questions arise: the first is, are not the Du Ponts entitled to hold stock in a company which they saved from bankruptcy and helped to build to its present estate? The other question is the broader and the more general one: is it sound for the United States that any group should possess the economic power which the Du Ponts now hold? These questions cannot be answered by a yes or no. And they lead to the further one: is it sounder for a business to sell a 25 per cent interest to Du Pont or to borrow from the RFC? And if anyone has eventually to borrow from the RFC, will not the greater part of American industry sooner or later be owned by the RFC — a government agency? Will that not be socialization? We might even go further and inquire whether, if there is a trend toward the concentration of economic power, is it preferable in private or in government control?

The case of the Lorain (Ohio) Journal, however, involves no such difficulty. To my thinking, it is a sinister attempt at government control of the press. The principles adduced can be applied to any newspaper. In the Lorain Journal case, the anti-trust lawyers seek to force a newspaper to accept all advertising submitted for publication. Suppose a newspaper rejects liquor advertising because the owner believes that liquor is wrong, even a sin, his private judgment may not prevail. He has to publish the advertisement. Yet, many newspapers reject advertisements because they believe them to be swindles, immoral, indecent, outrageous. Who is to judge?

Sometimes a newspaper rejects an advertisement because it has no space. The first duty of a newspaper is to publish the news. It is not at all unusual for such a newspaper as the New York "Times" to say that so many pages of advertising were omitted because they had no space. It is a matter of judgement. They will waste, from my standpoint, a page of type publishing a ghost-written speech by a president or someone like that and omit a page of advertisement. If the publishers of that newspaper want to lose good money that way, it is up to them. If they prefer to be a newspaper of record and publish full documents, that is their business. It certainly reduces revenue from advertising. Now along comes the department of justice and takes the position that they must accept the advertising revenue even if they have to omit the president's speech.

Certainly this makes no sense about trust-busting, anti-monopoly, restraint of trade. It is unrelated to the subject. It is an attempt to establish government control of newspapers. The origin of the attempt may go back to the rejection by some newspapers of advertisements of books, societies and committees which the publishers rejected for good and sufficient reasons. A publisher sells a household commodity and he stakes his reputation on what he thinks is decent. He must have freedom to do that. And only that is the issue in the Lorain Journal case.

Diet and Health Disease of Skin Can Be Serious

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN lupus erythematosus we have a serious disease of the skin about which little is known, either as to its cause or its cure.

The fact that exposure to sunshine seems to make the condition worse hints at the possibility that certain light rays may play a role. But why they should have a harmful effect on the comparatively few individuals affected with lupus erythematosus and not on others, is a question that remains to be answered.

Affects Joints

Another rather strange fact about this disease is that in many cases it seems to affect the joints, as well as the skin. Often, in addition to the itching, red-sealed rash which covers the nose and cheeks, there is also pain in the joints, together with congestion and swelling.

Recently, a number of such patients have been treated with some degree of success with para-aminobenzoic acid, a part of the vitamin-B complex. While it is not known just how this substance acts to bring relief, it may be that this work will eventually give a new clue as to the nature of this puzzling ailment. Meanwhile it gives us what is perhaps our best means of helping those afflicted with it.

In one study a total of 32 patients were given this remedy. Four obtained excellent results, 18 became significantly better, four had poor results, and 7 were not benefited at all.

When the treatment was beneficial, the rash gradually faded, and there was lessening of the swelling and congestion. Relief of the itching and burning in the involved areas was obtained. The patients also noted improvement in their sense of well-being. One patient had relief from severe joint pains.

First Few Days

In some cases, the skin rash became slightly worse during the first few days of treatment. In many cases, the para-aminobenzoic acid had to be continued over a long period in order to bring about any response. The para-aminobenzoic acid is not a cure for this disease and, if treatment with it is stopped, the condition tends to recur.

Reactions to the preparation seem to occur fairly often. Occasionally, the patients develop fever while receiving this substance. Sometimes, the drug may produce sickness at the stomach and vomiting. These attacks of fever and reactions may be overcome by administering the para-aminobenzoic acid in small amounts and gradually increasing the dose. These symptoms subside when the drug is temporarily stopped and, in most cases, it can be started again without producing any further trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: I have a pain through my right lung and it extends up the back of my neck. Will you tell me the cause?

Answer: The pain may be due to gallbladder disease, or to some condition within the chest cavity, such as pleurisy which is an inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs. It might be caused by some disorder affecting the muscles or nerves of the back.

You should have a thorough study made to determine the cause of your condition.

Warner Brothers is currently claiming to have taken the longest individual scene ever to be filmed in any country of the world.

The scene from the picture, "Under Capricorn," played for nine and one half minutes, under the direction of Alfred Hitchcock.

SYNOPSIS
Aristocratic old Judge King and his wife, Elizabeth, are welcoming home a son from his military service. A gay party is in progress at the Kings, their home. Elizabeth is so proud of her son that she is determined to make sure that he is not disappointed. She is determined to make sure that he is not disappointed. She is determined to make sure that he is not disappointed.

CHAPTER SIX
"I WOULD hardly know you," the Judge said.

Nothing banal, like a repetition of the surprise Gerry had given him. Nothing warm, like a welcome, either. Simply a statement, pronounced in a reserved measured tone as if it were a final judgment, an uncontroversial decision. It was the way Gerry remembered him. "I have found a good place for you." Selah!

Thinking these things, he answered, "But you are just the same."

There was a moment of quiet, then, courteously, "Sit down, won't you?" And as the older man took his own chair again, his glance under his heavy, hooding brows, into the service.

"Yes, I'm just out. But I'm still privileged to wear this outfit a while longer."

"You did an extra stretch after the war ended?"

"Yes. The sir of his Army training rose to his lips but he held it back. He had seated himself with a deliberate nonchalance astride a straight chair, his arms along its back, and was now squarely facing his inquisitor.

"Where were you?"

"China. Burma. India. After that, wherever they sent me. But mostly in the States."

The Judge's glance touched the Captain's bar. "You did very well, I see."

"Well, starting from nothing, perhaps."

There was a sudden gleam under the heavy brows, then Steven asked evenly, "And now?"

Gerry smiled and the bright mockery crept into his voice again. "That of course, is the question, isn't it?"

"The future has a way of de- manding that we face it."

Gerry shrugged. "Well, I've always had a way of facing the fu- ture."

Nurses Enjoy Christmas Party At Dinner Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Professional Nurses Association was combined with a festive Christmas party, when they assembled in the private dining room at the Anderson Drive Inn.

Mrs. Floyd Mitchell, Mrs. Howard Somers and Mrs. Dana Hyer were hostesses, and tables set for the group for the delicious repast, were decorated in keeping with the approaching Yuletide season.

Twenty-seven of the thirty-two membership were present, and following a most congenial dinner hour, the business session was in charge of Mrs. Richard Gillen.

Mrs. Ben Glover, Mrs. Langdon McCoy, Mrs. Thurl Campbell and Mrs. Robert Tevens were welcomed as new members of the association. Following the usual business routine, a lengthy discussion was held on plans for landscaping the new Fayette County Memorial Hospital, which is under construction, which is a major project of the association.

A gift exchange was enjoyed and the members lingered for a pleasant informal social hour.

Guests Entertained By Mrs. Wilson At Two Events

Two beautifully appointed parties were given by Mrs. Herbert Wilson on Thursday and Friday evenings when she was hostess to five tables of guests at a dessert bridge at each event. Her newly remodeled home was festive with Christmas suggestions and the tempting dessert was served at small tables each centered with a single tall red taper with red and white place cards in the form of mittens cleverly marked each cover, which was exactly duplicated at each party.

In the Thursday evening game awards were presented to Mrs. Martin A. Hughes, who was high score holder, Mrs. Ormond Dewey, second and Mrs. Ellet Kaufman, the trophy in the special game.

On Friday evening Mrs. J. J. Kelley received the high score award, Miss Ruth Sexton, second and Mrs. Stacy S. Boren the special gift.

CTS Class Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party and gift exchange of the CTS Class of the First Presbyterian Church, always a high light of the year's social events, was held in the church house with twenty-seven members and guests in attendance. Christmas cheer radiated from every room.

Mrs. Bess Briggs, president, presided and devotions were conducted by Mrs. C. H. Thoroman. A memorial by the secretary was given in honor of Mrs. Fred Hamm and Miss Mary Pinkerton recently deceased.

The usual reports were read and accepted and members who are ill were brought to the attention of the class.

During the social hour a gift exchange was enjoyed and a box packed for the miners in southern Ohio.

A dainty dessert course with Christmas touches was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jess A. Hyer, Mrs. Carrie Deer, Mrs. Maude Forman and assisted by Mrs. Mildred Rogers.

Guests for the evening were Miss Bess Bruce Cleveland and Mrs. Mildred Rogers, and the class welcomed a charter member Mrs. Mary Jane Hitchcock, now of Marietta.

Mrs. Herbert Wilson left Saturday morning for Cincinnati where she will be a business visitor over the weekend.

Personals

Mrs. Beryl Cockerill was in Columbus Friday for an all day meeting of the executive committee of the Ohio Welfare and Relief Directors Association of Ohio. Mrs. Cockerill is a member of the executive committee and represents Fayette County as Relief Director.

Mrs. Mary Russell of Dayton is the weekend guest of her brother Mr. Lewis Ramsey, Mrs. Ramsey, and other relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. Limes Are Honor Guests At Housewarming

A group of close friends assembled at the beautiful new home of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Limes on the Greenfield Road Friday evening for a housewarming honoring the couple, which was planned and carried out as a complete surprise to them. Well filled baskets of tempting viands taken by the guests made up the delicious covered dish dinner, served buffet fashion. Dr. and Mrs. Limes were presented with a beautiful brass fire place basket from the group tied with a red bow, adding to the presentation was a clever poem composed and read by Mrs. Thomas Christopher.

Later informal games of Canasta were enjoyed to complete a most pleasant evening. The planning of the event was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Dewey, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chitty.

Other couples participating in housewarming were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enslin, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Halliday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Landrum, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Korn, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe, Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Reiff, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rost, Mr. and Mrs. Condon Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunton and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wilson.

Eastern Star Plans Christmas Program

Following the stated meeting of the Royal Chapter No. 29 of Eastern Star on Monday evening, a Christmas program and gift exchange will be followed by a social hour. Resident members are cordially invited to attend this annual event.

Garden Club Luncheon Meeting, Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party of the Twin Oaks Garden Club, preceded by a delicious covered dish luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes on Friday with a large number of members present. The luncheon was served buffet fashion, from one long table, centered with a clever Christmas scene in white. And tables seating the group for the congenial luncheon hour were adorned with miniature Christmas trees. Later the members enjoyed the Ruth Lyons television program. A business meeting followed with Mrs. Virgil Garringer gave her yearly report as secretary and announced an invitation to the Washington Garden Club open meeting, at the Dayton Power and Light Club rooms on December 14. A lengthy discussion was held on a memorial in the Good Hope Cemetery which is the major project of the club. The highlight of the afternoon was the gift exchange around the brilliantly lighted Christmas tree. The next meeting will be combined with the Marilee Garden Club, at Wayne Hall, in January.

Mrs. Lawrence Hoppes, Miss Melba McCoy, and Mrs. William McFadden were included as guest.

Camp Fire Girls Entertain Parents

The Luta Campfire Girls, held their annual Christmas party in the basement of the East Side School and included as guests their parents other members of their families and friends. Mrs. sent to supervise and assist the A. H. Finley and Mrs. Eugene Cook guardians, were also pregigs in the special event. Mrs. Cook, introduced the girls by their different ranks and explained that two of the girls Dorothy Woods and Sandra Cook planned and executed the party to earn their leadership ranks.

The program consisted of the singing of the "Nature Hymn," by the group "Away In A Manger," was sung as a duet by Patty Cutlip and Ann Sheppard and the group sang "Hark The Angels Sing." A clever Paw Paw dance was given by Patty Cutlip, Sarah Core, Sandra Cook, Sandy Rose, Rene Michael and Ann Sheppard.

Group song flutes was participated in by Sandra Cook, Sarah Core, Ann Sheppard, Sandy Rose and Patty Cutlip. A poem "A Dream of Christmas" written by Dorothy Woods was read by Sarah Core.

Another reading "Twas the Night Before Christmas" was given by Sandy Rose and an original version of the same poem written by Dorothy Woods was given by Sandra Cook. "Silent Night" was the carol presented by the group and a hilarious skit "Mrs. Snoop and Her Un-Educated Morons" was enacted by Carolyn Michael as the teacher, Sarah Core as "Rutherford Simple Adams," Ann Sheppard, "Merry Christmas," Sandra Cook as Jane Dobbins, Sandy Rose as "Maggie Dobbins" and Rene Michael as "Hazel Measles." The skit was much enjoyed by the guests and later in a gift exchange the mothers received as special gifts from the girls handmade aprons. Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, hot chocolate and candy were served during the social hour. Special guests were Mrs. Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. W. W. Humphries and Linda Humphries mascot of the Luta Campfire Girls.

For a festive topping for brownies mix together a half cup of moist grated coconut and a few tablespoons of sugar; spread over the top of the brownie pan when it comes from the oven and toast under the broiler.

Recent Bride Is Complimented At Shower

Miss Joyce Crone, Miss Betty Baker and Miss Lois Cherry-holmes were charming hostesses when they combined hospitalities to compliment Mrs. Joe Martin (Marilyn Bishop), a recent bride, with a lovely shower.

The party was held in the Record-Herald club rooms and yellow and green, favorite colors of Mrs. Martin, were used throughout the evening in decorations and refreshments.

Many lovely gifts were arranged on a large table, decorated with a huge green and yellow umbrella, over which hung a large yellow sprinkler. As the bride, who wore green satin, ornamented with a single white gardenia, opened her gifts, she made a wish for each donor.

Miss Dorothy Pyle and Mrs. Robert Bishop won awards in two clever contests.

In the lively round of games, awards went to Nancy Boylan, Rosella Dowden and Becky Armbrust. All prizes were presented to the honor guest.

Invited guests included: Mrs. Otis Martin of Clarksburg, Mrs. Edgar Snyder of Columbus, Mrs. Robert Bishop, Misses Barbara West, Barbara Browning, Barbara Manahan, Dorothy Pyle, Sue Paul, Susie Willis, Ruth Bandy, Mary

Sue Belles, Becky Armbrust, Anne McFadden, Fern Thompson, Marilyn Van Voorhis, Ann Grillo, Robin Newhouse, Judy Acton, Judy Rost, Rosella Dowden, Pat Eckle, Roseann Armbrust, Peggy Reichelderfer, Rita Keane, Madeline Denen, Nancy Boylan, Dixie DeWeese and Mrs. Stanley Melvin. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Charles F. Crone and Mrs. Edgar Snyder.

In frying chicken many cooks have excellent results when they keep the skillet fat very hot when the chicken is dropped in, then cover the pan and lower the heat to steam. The cover may be removed for the last five or ten minutes of cooking and the chicken crisped.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

One year memorial, Dec. 10, 1948.
In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Zada Yokum Wright, who passed away one year ago today, Dec. 10, 1948.

In a lonely grave yard,
Not so many miles away,
Lies our dear mother,
Neath the cold, cold clay.
Memories oft returning,
Of her dear old smile,
But if we trust in Jesus,
We'll meet her in the skies.
Now our mother is lonely,
It has no mother's love,
One dear form is absent, Mother whom we loved, who shared our joys,
Who cheered when sad, the greatest friend we ever had.
Long life here, for there's no other,
Can take the place of our dear
Mother.
Sadly missed by her daughter and sons.

Tri-County Realty Board Wins Honors

National Award Is Given To Local Realtors Group

The Tri-County Real Estate Board, of which Roy Porter, Washington C. H. realtor is president, has been notified that it won first honors in the national contest for the best program given on "Constitution Day".

The distinct honor comes to the Tri-County Board as result of an interesting program given in September, at Leesburg, with S. A. Ringer, chairman of the Constitution Day committee, of the board in charge.

The award made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards carries with it $50, which will be applied to the benefit of the Tri-County Board.

It is interesting to know that hundreds of Constitution Day programs were given by realty boards throughout the nation, and that the programs were judged on the following points:

Completeness of program, 25 points.

Participation of other civic groups, 35 points.

Attention by press and radio, 25 points.

Quality of report, 15 points.

Lowell Baker, Chicago, Ill., administrative secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, in notifying Ringer, as chairman of the program committee, states in his letter:

"Congratulations on the excellent program sponsored by the Tri-County Board in observance of Constitution Day at Leesburg on Sept. 28, 1949, under your personal supervision.

As was announced at the annual realtors convention here in Chicago, Nov. 22, the committee selected to judge the most effective observance of Constitution Day, as evidenced by the many, many programs submitted, chose the program of the Tri-County Real Estate Board of Ohio as being worthy of first place. We are therefore pleased to attach here to our check for $50.

"We feel sure that many of our other member boards will be inspired by the grand program you arranged and not only will be of value locally but nationwide."

A story on the award will be carried in the next issue of "Sidelines", official publication of the national board, which has nationwide circulation.

Formation of Newcomers Club Here Discussed

Outside Authority On Clubs To Be Invited Here

A handful of persons here who are interested in helping new residents of this city get acquainted held their first meeting Friday at the Hotel Washington and kicked around the idea of forming a Newcomers Club.

They were busy today writing to cities where similar clubs have met with success to get ideas for setting up an organization here.

Sometime after the first part of the year they will get together again and get some advice from Mrs. Eleanor Froelich, who is associated with such Newcomers Clubs.

There were several good ideas presented at the luncheon-meeting held by the group Friday.

Mrs. Roy F. Plymale, a newcomer herself, told about the Newcomers Club in Newark functions. She said the Newark club meets once a month for luncheon get-togethers then informal groups meet in various homes for bridge games and other activities.

Paul VanVoorhis told about the Lancaster Club, of which his wife was a member. He said several women there were so interested in the club that they were members for from four to five years.

Some idea of need for a Newcomers Club in this city was given when Alfred E. Weatherly, president of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and manager of the DP&L company here, said his records show that 107 new families were signed up for electric or gas service since the first of the year.

Mrs. E. P. Suntheimer, welcome wagon hostess here, said there are many new residents moving to this city. She said she would be glad to assist in the formation of a Newcomers Club here.

Others present at the meeting were Mrs. Lowell Miller, Forest Tipton, Mrs. Ben Norris, C. E. McCauley and Neil Hercules.

Health Check For Students Nears Close

Ever stand on your feet in one place for three or four hours steady?

That's just what Dr. Gordon E. Savage, health commissioner, has been doing these last few weeks in order to get through the annual check-up on juniors and seniors in county and city high schools.

As he examines the students, Dr. Savage notes down such things as tonsils that need removing or eyes that need glasses and any other defects that need correcting.

With this record, the health department then refers the student to his family doctor for treatment, if necessary.

Right now, Dr. Savage only has 10 to 15 more students to check to complete his rounds.

Then the health department will begin recording the data. These records are then used to check from time to time with the student to see if he or she has secured any treatment necessary or whether the health complications have developed any further.

In this way, the juniors and seniors are helped to insure their health before leaving school.

This is No. 12 in a series of "KNOW YOUR RECORD-HERALD CARRIER" advertisements

These are printed to better acquaint local readers with their respective carriers. To know boys and girls better is to understand them better.

These carriers are determined to see that you receive regular delivery. They realize they must give good service if they are to continue serving you.

Introducing A Carrier Boy

Do you recognize him?

He is one of the Record-Herald's 30 paper boys who bring you your daily newspaper. His name is

David Whiteside

David Whiteside has some youthful ambitions to fill.

One of them is to make enough money from his paper route to buy a ham radio set, which he intends to operate himself.

"It will take me about a year to save enough money," young Whiteside says.

The other ambition is to be a rancher with a string of beautiful Palomino horses.

Young Dave, a sixth grader at Cherry Hill school, is a grandson of David Whiteside, superintendent of the Fayette County Children's Home.

He carries almost 100 papers to residents in the Millwood district along Lakeview, Millwood and Van Deman Avenues and Madison Street. Dave was a substitute on a route two years ago in the northeast part of the city.

He is the oldest of a family of three brothers and two sisters, who live with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Whiteside, at 130 Oakland Avenue.

In talking to various Fayette County business men we find that they received their early training as newspaper carriers when they were boys. They all say that this early experience has been very valuable to them. They appreciate the opportunity this training represents.

Here is a seventy-ton block being hoisted from a Rainbow Granite quarry. It will be loaded on a flat car and taken to the huge plant at Cold Spring, Minnesota for fabrication into fine monuments.

Note the corrugations on the block and on the quarry walls. These were formed by holes drilled in line with pneumatic drills. Blocks are thus separated from the quarry bed without shock of severe blasting. This means that every granite block is sound. Thus, the high quality of Rainbow Granite Monuments begins at the quarry.
